

Capstone Nutrition Announces Successful Recapitalization and Capital Investment in State-of-the-Art Powder Production Capabilities in its Utah Facility

Ogden, Utah, April 28, 2016 – Capstone Nutrition (“Capstone”), one of the largest non-branded contract manufacturers of health and dietary supplements in the United States, today announced the completion of a successful recapitalization and significant capital investment to expand its state-of-the-art powder manufacturing capabilities and organic product capabilities in its Ogden, UT facility.

Capstone’s recent capital investments in manufacturing technology and equipment have broadened its extensive product offerings, enabling the company to better serve its nutritional supplement and sports nutrition customers with industry leading quality, research and development and customer service. As a part of Capstone’s recapitalization and recent strategic investments, the company will consolidate powder production from its Tennessee facility into its Utah facility to service customers more efficiently.

“This recapitalization reinforces our ability to pursue our long-term strategic growth initiatives. We are excited by our enhanced manufacturing capabilities, which will enable us to deliver high quality powders and other nutritional products to our customers,” said Jared Leishman, Capstone Nutrition’s Chief Executive Officer. “We appreciate the support we have received from our investors Medley Management Inc. and Business Development Corporation of America and look forward to leveraging their long-term vision and continued confidence in us.”

Capstone’s Utah facility is accredited with several of the most demanding nutritional supplement industry standards, including TGA, NSF GMP and NSF for Sport certifications. This commitment to quality, together with Capstone’s continued investment in its facilities and product offerings, makes it a preferred partner for domestic and global customers seeking a trusted contract manufacturer.
